Man Admits to $350 Forgeries

Would You Prefer Flivver to Baby? They Did

Clarence Epton and wife would rather ride around the streets of St. Paul in a flivver than sit at home and rock the cradle. They were forced to choose between keeping their flivver or their new-born baby on his salary of $25 a week—so they left the baby on a doorstep. Left to right are seen their new-born boy, Epton, 19; Mrs. Epton, 17, and their flivver.

FARM-LABORMAY MAKE NO CHOICE

Find Both Robertson and Ferguson Labor's Friend

The Farm-Labor Political conference of Texas will probably make no choice between Judge Felix Robertson and Mrs. Miriam Ferguson, the two high candidates in the race for governor and who are now in the runoff.

This was the statement today of Henry Maitre, labor leader here and a member of the state executive committee of the Farm-Labor conference. Maitre has just returned from Dallas, where he attended a meeting of the conference executive committee and conferred with other leaders of the party.

Conferred With Both

While in Dallas Maitre said he conferred with both Judge Robertson and Mrs. Miriam Ferguson.

"The executive committee found that both the records of Judge Robertson and Mrs. Ferguson were strong for labor. In view of this it is unlikely we'll take a stand for or against either of them. We can hardly do it with any consistency for both have played fair with us. The committee feels jubilant over the election despite the fact our choice was defeated. The election of either the two left in the governor's race means a friend to the laborer and farmer of Texas," Maitre concluded.

There were 76 electrical permits for the month and a total of $281.50 in fees.

Installation of gas meters showed practically no change for the month with 89 new ones recorded in comparison to 79 in June.

LONDON, Aug. 1.—Maintaining the momentum imported by French concessions, the inter-allied conference reached agreement in committee today on the subject of possible modification of the experts' plan.

Arrest in Airdome Fire Case Near Say Officers After Probe

New Angle Injected in Case, Says Detective Briszende in Charge of Official Investigation

A new angle has been injected into theories being worked on by police officers in connection with the partial destruction of the Garden Airdrome theater by fire Tuesday night, officials said today.

"A new and plausible angle to the fire is being investigated," Detective Y. Q. Briszende, in charge of the investigation, said today.

Thus, he said, probably will lead to one or more arrests.

Neighbors and police officials stated they believed the fire to be incendiary. It is this phase of the fire which is being investigated.

39 Dogs, 11 Cats Slain at Pound

Thirty-nine dogs and 11 cats had their last "right out" during July, says the monthly report of G. W. Foote, poundmaster, filed this morning in committee meeting.

Not only did Foote send the canines and felines on their way to discover the mysteries of the life hereafter, but he also served notices to housewives to keep their chickens penned and not disturb the harmony and vegetables of the community.

The poundmaster caught eight horses and five cows, collecting fees totaling $28.

NEFF FAILS TO GIVE ANSWER ON DEFENSE

AUSTIN, Aug. 1.—When pressed by the United Press today for a statement as to whether he would order the mobilization of the Texas National Guard on National Defense Day, Governor Neff answered with a characteristic expression:

"Just say that the governor appeared war-like, but that his word was for peace."

Low Oil Prices Cause Operation Reduction

AUSTIN, Aug. 1.—Low price of oil continues to cause a reduction in operation in Texas, according to the oil and gas division of the railroad commission. In June pipeline earnings totaled 10,288,206, decrease of 1,223,713 compared with the preceding month's earnings. Notices of intention to drill new wells also decreased the number in June being 495, compared with 520 in May and 520 in April.

SUSPECT TAKEN AT LAKE CHARLES

Confesses to 7 Transactions Here, Police Say

MONEY NOT RECOVERED

Two Weeks Search Ends In Arrest

Clearing up one of the fastest swindling cases ever perpetrated in Port Arthur was believed certain today with the bringing in from Lake Charles of a man whom officers say has admitted he passed seven fictitious checks of $30 each with local merchants.

Following the wholesale giving of bad checks by the man two weeks ago who had picked a pay day rush for his patrons, the police department and Retail Merchants' association broadbasted the man's description in this section. Joe Wyndel of the police department, finger print expert, learned the Port Arthur swindler had in all probability operated in a like manner at Houston a few weeks ago.

Confession, Bay Officers

Thursday afternoon the police department officers were notified by Lake Charles authorities a man fitting the description sent from here had been caught there in the act of giving a bad check. Police Captain Fox and Officers Brinsdine and Wyndel set out at once for the Louisiana city.

On arrival there late last night the man was closely questioned and according to Wyndel, not only confessed his operations here but admitted he had pulled the big Houston swindle also.

The man under arrest is said by officers to have admitted staying at Beaumont a week before he came to Port Arthur. On the afternoon of July 19, according to the story told (See to Page 2, Column 2).

ARRESTS MADE FOR 'FLIRTING'

Covington Reports Three for Month of July

You can't do your flirting on the streets of Port Arthur and get by with it.

A new category appeared on Police Chief Covington's report of arrests for July, for three arrests out of a total of 331 were listed unaccountably as "flirting on streets."

Thirty-three arrests out of 331 were transferred to other authorities, and cash collections reached $3,185.15. Vagrancy leads the list, as usual, but speeding topped out drunkenness last month. The police department clamped down during July, and drove up the total of arrests for speeding from the customary half dozen or so to 48. "Drunk" described 41 arrests.

REPORT URGES LABORERS BE NOTIFIED TO CAST BALLOTS IN NOVEMBER FOR INDEPENDENT TICKET

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 1.—The first official step towards endorsement of the presidential candidate of Senator Robert M. La Follette was taken here today at the opening session of the executive council of the American Federation of Labor.

The report recommending that the laborers be notified to cast ballots for the independent ticket and against the two major parties was offered by the special political committee.

This committee is headed by Samuel Gompers, dictator of labor politics in the past and the weight of his suggestion is so great it is considered a foregone conclusion.

The report of the political committee gives complete sanction to the domestic policies of La Follette but it is admitted his foreign policies do not commend themselves to the laborers. La Follette is against the league of nations and the world court, while the federation strongly favors them.

Two Claim Murphy Threatened in Rum Theft By Wet Ring

New Angle Precipitated in Disappearance of Bayou Hermit; Search Turns to Two in Alleged Quarrel

That two men, said by their informant to be bootleggers, came to the shack of "Bugs" Murphy Saturday afternoon and threatened his life just a little more than a day before the old boot (tender was last seen at Taylor's bayou, was information given Constable Baker this morning as the latest angle in the mystery which has puzzled this section for nearly two weeks.

The information procured by Baker today from neighbors and friends of Murphy implicates the very two men Baker has suspected from the beginning and who have apparently left the country since Baker began his investigation last Monday.

Accused of Boozing Theft

According to Baker's informant the two men came to Murphy's shack and first accused him of stealing 15 gallons of liquor from them. This was met as an excuse, the belief of neighbors, to start a fuss with Murphy. The quarrel was said to have been very bitter and the result was the two men left threatening to kill Murphy, and accusing him of being a stool-pigeon.

With this additional information, Baker started out this morning to learn the whereabouts of the two men accused of quarreling with Murphy. With their arrest Baker said he believes he will have something on which to base his investigations and lead to a solution.

To Search Murphy Again

Baker and Deputy Johnson plan today to search the marsh country again and secure themselves at the body of charred bones of the old bootlegger is not in the region where the murder is believed to have taken place, they said.

A report was circulated here about 8 o'clock last night that Murphy's body had been found and Baker and Johnson were besieged by questioners asking verification of the rumor. As this was an old and nothing comes of it, the rumor of Murphy's friends that he was a victim of foul play, it becomes more reasonable he is dead, the officers maintain.

The case will not be abandoned, Baker said.

JUDGE CAMPBELL FINDS FOR CLERK

General Demurrer by Council Overruled

COMMISSION APPEALS

Discharge at Variance With Charter, Says Judge

Judge J. D. Campbell in 60th district court this afternoon overruled a general demurrer entered by the city commission following a hearing held Wednesday on a temporary injunction granted City Clerk E. H. Miles restraining the city commission from discharging him or in any way interfering with his duties as city clerk.

In effect the order is that Miles was not properly discharged.

Appeal Taken

The issue now goes to the ninth court of civil appeals, Fred A. White for the city of Port Arthur, brought into the case by the commissioners when they notified Miles of his discharge effective July 2, filing an appeal.

Considerable interest in the case has been manifested in Port Arthur because of the civil service issue involved.

In handing down his decision Judge Campbell declared that City Clerk Miles was improperly discharged, under the existing ordinances and charter of the city of Port Arthur, and that the city had failed to show specific cause for such discharge.

General charge that Miles was, and the city commissioners claimed, no longer satisfactory as city clerk was insufficient.

MOB THREATENS EVANS' SERVANT

Rail Officials Probe Report Of Disturbance

DALLAS, Aug. 1.—Railroad officials here today were investigating reports of threatened mob action on a Texas-Pacific passenger train near the Louisiana state line during the night against the alleged occupancy of a berth in the Pullman section of the train by the negro servant of Dr. H. W. Evans, Imperial wizard of the Ku Klux Klan.

Rail officials said today that charges had been filed pending investigation, but would be in event it was found that the state "Jim Crow" law, which provides for segregation of white and colored passengers, had been violated.

According to reports made by trainmen, the Pullman porter advised the conductor near Marshall, Texas, that female passengers were complaining about the presence of the negro in the car. When the train stopped at Marshall several passengers alighted and returned cheerfully with two policemen. Train officials informed the officers that the rules of the railroad company gave the negro the right to be in the car under the provision permitting passengers to be accompanied by their personal servants.

DISTANCE KNOWLEDGE OF NEGRO IN PULLMAN

'BROKE' BY PRODUCING VENTURE, CHARLES RAY STARTS ALL OVER

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 1.—Charles Ray, foremost portrayer of the gawky juvenile, now is playing his biggest part.

Now, however, no audiences to view it, nor orchestration to herald climaxes. It is a real life drama, with Ray in the stellar role.

True to the undertone of those stories which have made him famous, paralleling in motivation and action those plots in which the public loves him, his life story now has arrived at that pitch where fans are wont to covertly murmur, "Oh, I hope it comes out all right."

For Ray has chased Idealism, found it unbearably costly, and now has returned to just where he started, unknown, years ago.

Ernst Lubitsch, producer and director, he is again under the banner and on the payroll of Thomas H. Ince, the man who raised him from but into parts and thence into stardom.

Life has lent a dramatic touch by decreeing that the first of his new same man, C. Gardner Sullivan, who wrote "The Coward," first of all pictures to bring Ray out of the crowd. That was nearly a dozen years ago.

Signal Tower Made Near Railway Track

There is quite a bit of meaning in the title, "The Signal Tower," movie coming to the Cameo theater Sunday for there undoubtedly is a "signal tower" in any domestic situation, says Manager Pittman. Sometimes the signals are disregarded, sometimes not, depending on the couple's understanding.

Wadsworth Camp, widely known short story writer, wrote the original of the screen play. His story won a prize, as well as the acclaim of being one of the most convincing works of fiction ever written of persons in the more common walks of life.

Virtually all of the screen version was made along the right-of-way of a railroad running through forest covered mountains. Fidelity to technical detail was obtained largely through the advice and assistance of railroad officials. The exceptionally strong supporting cast includes Wallace Berry and Rockliffe Fellowes.

Perfect Mirage Seen Just Before Storm

CAPE MAY, N. J., Aug. 1.—Several hours before a storm descended on the South Jersey coast, there appeared off the Delaware capes the most perfect and beautiful mirage that fishermen of this section can recall.

It was so clear that Rehoboth Beach, 20 miles down the coast, could be seen against the horizon with the naked eye, while the lighthouse at Lewes at the entrance of the capes loomed up white and snowy like a phantom sentinel of the deep.

INDICATES LAST PROPOSALS MADE

Smith Says He'll Confer With Wistner Soon

Asked what progress was being made between the company and the Chamber of Commerce and Shipping's traction committee on a new franchise, Howard M. Smith, manager of the Port Arthur Traction company, today indicated that the traction company had already made its final proposition in the franchise discussed before the commission this week. Smith said he would confer with City Attorney Wistner today and see that the city's counter proposition was placed in concrete form as soon as possible for discussion.

"We haven't been making any money and the first thing we know we won't be able to meet our payroll," the traction manager predicted if his company were constantly forced to build fresh extensions other than those agreed on.

The street car company has no objection to abolishing the "one-way" of 10 feet with six-inch curbing provided in the tentative franchise, Smith said.

"That was put in there by R. L. Drake, chairman of the committee, and I can readily see why," Smith continued. Contrary to the commission's objections to a parkway in the middle of the street, Smith claimed the streets scheduled for street car extensions are not too narrow for one-way traffic.

"Why, when they are talking about making Austin street a one-way street in one direction and Broadway street a one-way street in the other direction, there is surely something to one-way traffic."

Smith cited Washington boulevard in Beaumont, as an instance of the superiority of one-way streets.

"Look at the immense volume of traffic going out on North Freeway, and all that goes out on the Beaumont road—and that's only 16 feet wide, and has two-way traffic," he declared.

We don't want any flapper to feel that any man is better than she is because my experience in Port Arthur is that they don't like it. I think this Sideburns girl has got no kick coming, because she got a beautiful hairdo even if I do say so myself. But a girl once in a while comes along who tries to give us the runs and you know enough about it to know that when a barber says that her work must suffer, because he's either got to talk to her or she's got to talk to him. Now or then, I remember always that she's a lady whether she talks like it or not.

I'VE PICKED enough chewing gum off my heels that if it wasn't already chewed would furnish a drug store, and handling a day passes but what some flapper doesn't think this is an exception because lots prefer to smoke in public. That's her business and not mine and I got no kick coming. I think my cigarette bill would be a great deal higher but I got so many "gimmies" from some of my clients that I changed my brand to Picarones and that takes confidence and a pair of brass lungs because it is a heavier smoke than the Natural Sounds and English Orals.

Now I don't mean these as a kick because all of us have our faults, but anybody who thinks that a girl is going to wait in line in a barber shop while a couple of men get waited on don't know them like I do. The minute they get in the door their feet get to tangle around their necks, and a comb and scissors and start cutting or else the barber is going to get bawled out to a crisp and you wouldn't like that any more than I do. Usually a man don't mind waiting on a woman because that would mean they would go home earlier whereas by waiting in the barber shop they could stay down town longer and while they wait they don't mind watching a pretty girl get a hair cut.

I EXPECT I cut as many boys as any barber in Port Arthur and of course we have our troubles like anybody else, because every once in a while a girl will take a look in the mirror before the job is done and start crying. There are three times a girl cries and means it. When she gets married and when she gets her hair cut. If she cries hard at her wedding as some of them do getting a hair cut I sympathize with the groom. Of course a barber can't like her but we try to kid her along and tell her how beautiful she looks and that usually works. I think barbers and groomsmen should form some kind of association because both have to make the girls stop crying.

Well, I hope you will take this as I mean it, because I think this Sideburns girl was trying to kid me and I just want you to know that I've been kidded by experts.

Yours truly,
U. R. NEXT.

SUSPECT TAKEN

The officers, the man under arrest says he drove from there in an automobile and gave the seven checks to local merchants in less than an hour's time.

The fact the day was pay day at one of the refineries and so many checks were being cashed by merchants is given as a reason why the alleged swindler had met with no trouble in his operations here.

All checks given here were signed by J. W. Walker as vice president of a Galveston bank and made out to Clarence D. Cunningham. According to Wyndell the man admits stealing a number of blank cashier checks from the Galveston bank some months ago. Those, with the aid of a check writer and a photostatic of the alleged swindler said to officers he converted into apparently bona fide cashier's checks.

The signatures on the seven checks given here, show some variation but all are signed apparently with the same fountain pen and ink.

Merchants who were victims of the swindler's artistry were the Model Store, Toggery Shop, Denton's, Plaster, Wicker, Habers, Corner Drug and Anderson's, a grocery. These will all be asked to identify the man held but officers say the light of the confession already made this will not be necessary.

The man is said to have come through from California in an automobile with a woman whom he says was his wife. The woman with the car were not found at Lake Charles, officers said.

$10,190 LOSS IN FIRES REPORTED DURING JULY

Fire loss in Port Arthur last month reached $10,190, according to report of J. R. Coe, fire marshal. Seventeen alarms were answered by the fire department, but the loss was confined to seven of the 17 calls.

Cause of three of the seven fires was unknown, losses ranging from $900 to $1200. The last being the Garden Arcade fire. An electric wire was responsible for another loss of $1,000. Waste oil caused loss of $60 in one fire, and carelessness was blamed for a $20 loss.

Inspections made totaled 230, a total of 24 corrections being ordered.

FIREMEN EXTINGUISH BLAZE NEAR BRIDGE

A smoldering fire eating its way into a stretch of piling on the edge of the road across the bridge to the Pleasure Pier occupied the attention of the fire department this morning. The pier is in no danger, it was reported, the old and dried out piling, part of it rotted, having served its purpose.

Cause of the blaze was a mystery, but might be due to a match thrown by a smoker, first igniting bits of dry grass and then the piling.

The blaze caused rumors in Port Arthur that the pier was threatened, but firemen declared the blaze did not in any way menace the safety of the resort.

The case was appealed to the court of criminal appeals at Austin, but Judge Rose as attorney for the defendant declared she was being illegally restrained of her liberty when she was kept in the Port Arthur jail for a period of from 7 until 11 o'clock one night. Judge Campbell stated that the appeal was within the jurisdiction of the court of criminal appeals only.

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY

HIDE THY FACE FROM MY SINS, AND BLOT OUT ALL MINE INIQUITIES.—PS.51:9. SIN WRITES HISTORIES: GOODNESS IS SILENT.—GOETHE.

The Editorial Mind

However, comes

Olds and Ends and Comments on Our Morning Mail

There is such a thing as being widely good. Roger Dolan, back from a trip up in the North Country, so laconic that he thought were gold mines when he bought the stock, brings back this story:

"In a backwoods district where there is considerable tourist traffic—mostly fishing parties—we found a family running a hand laundry. The wife was famed for 80 miles as a 'good woman, an angel of mercy.' Fully half of her time was devoted to going to distant settlements to nurse the sick. Seldom did she get pay. Her reputation for goodness and charity seemed well grounded—until I looked under the surface."

"I found out that, when she went away on her errands of mercy, she turned the laundry work over to her two daughters. They were about 10 and 12 years old, and actually hunched-backed from overwork."

"My own laundry was late, and one of the little girls said: 'Mother's been gone a week. She left us with 20 washings to do.'"

"Angel of mercy? My own idea is that this system of 'being nice' is at the expense of others is wicked."

Rodger, you have discovered something new. Mary, a celebrated philanthropist, makes his gift at the expense of underpaid employees. We know one employer of child slaves who is always first on the job to contribute for the relief of needy children in far-off countries.

But real charity and good deeds involve personal sacrifice. They are not the stolen work of others, housed and masqueraded under an exploiter's name to satisfy his vanity.

This backwoods woman running a laundry and working her children into early graves to enable her to nurse the unfortunate—she would have to stay at home and give up her charitable work if it were not for the slavery she imposes on her children. She gets the credit. But the unhealed child slaves are making the rounds of mercy possible.

So easy to be nice at the expense of others. Some Wall Street bankers can cause for Uncle Sam to cancel the debts incurred by European belligerents from our national treasury. But just never hear the same bankers suggesting that they cancel the private loans they made to the same Europeans.

Readhouse owner, near Fort Wayne, Ind., says he couldn't sell near-bare at 10 cents a glass, but began to sell over a barrel a day as soon as he raised the price to 50 cents a glass.

The average American seems to buy things because they are too expensive or too cheap. An accurate sense of value is rare in our country. We might profitably employ Hebrews and Chinese in our schools to teach this subject, in which they excel.

Politicians campaigning by radio this year will be turned out unless they make their speeches short and snappy. It was different with the democratic convention broadcast. The element of content and endurance was sought to counteract the monotony of repetition and long duration.

This will be the first presidential campaign in history in which candidates will be able to address members of civil political parties. Can you imagine democrats filling a hall to hear republican speeches or republicans to hear democratic? The radio will work this marvel.

An airplane in France stays in the air 25 hours without coming down to earth. Unlike most air stunts, this is important. It demonstrates that flying is getting safer. Popular reluctance at going up in a plane is due to fear of falling. As soon as a flier stays aloft a week it'll be time to advertise for buyers of flying flippers.

Airplane industry is obsessed with a craze for speed and long flights. It should instead concentrate on safety—the thing needed to bring planes into widespread use.

Tourists in South Carolina find two small children in the road crying. Nearby they locate the mother, dead. Her hands clutch a rattlesnake, also dead, its fangs buried in her neck. She took no chances on the snake getting to her babies.

This is exceptional news—doesn't happen often. But it is not remarkable—any mother would do the same. Motherhood is self-sacrifice.

Canadian provinces, which are like our states, have been falling off the water wagon. Ontario's the only big province that's still dry. It will stay on the subject in the fall. Politicians up there expected Ontario to go dry. It probably would continue dry except for the presence of wet largely from American tourists.

"We can't have prohibition unless the whole country is dry," is the Canadian viewpoint. In America it's the other way around. Prohibition can come fast, by states and eventually a national vote has brought a respite.

Quickest way to dry boots or shoes overnight is to fill them with hot water or dirt, under a campfire. Spread to fire, they may char and become too hard to wear.

TEXAS PRODUCES 47 PER CENT OF U. S. COTTON CROP

Texas growers produced forty-seven per cent of the American crop this year. All Texans who are interested in the cotton industry are reminded that nearly one billion dollars worth of raw cotton was exported from the United States during the twelve months ending with June 1924, representing 5,731,936 bales, which was an increase of thirteen per cent in quantity and a thirty-seven per cent in value compared with the twelve months ending with June 1923.

Great Britain took almost 287,000 bales more of raw cotton during the fiscal year of 1924 than the previous twelve months. German purchases of raw cotton showed an increase of 403,460 bales over the preceding year. This shows that nearly six million bales of American cotton were imported in the last fiscal year. It also shows that the European countries are scoring a comeback regardless of what foreign politicians or bankers may say.

American millers are growing. They say that the planters of the south should raise a bumper crop of cotton in order that the staple may be cheap and American manufacturers be given cheap cotton to compete with the foreign manufacturers. According to a trade journal, ninety per cent of the cotton goods manufacturers in the north and south are operating their mills without profit.

They say that trade authorities are of one opinion on the need of a large yield, which will automatically bring about a readjustment in the cotton goods industry. That only a crop of not less than thirteen million bales can accomplish this end and that it is difficult for the manufacturer to believe that the largest acreage ever planted to cotton in the United States will not produce a crop larger than 11,934,000 bales, which is the latest estimate of the government.

For a hundred years the south produced cheap cotton for the manufacturers of Old England and New England. First slave labor was utilized. After the abolition of chattel slavery the labor of women and children in the cotton growing states of the south was utilized with the producers of cheap cotton were ever in debt and most of the time on the verge of abject poverty.

Now the southern farmer is diversifying. He is producing food staples as well as cotton. He is filling his own smokehouse, his own granary and supplying his own table with the necessities of life. He is doing more than this. He has been fascinated by the co-operative movement and cotton co-operatives are very numerous and their associations growing rapidly in the states where the cotton plant grows.

Europe is coming back and the figures show it. Russia is coming back and is a large buyer of American cotton. Japan is coming back and Japan looks to America for its fleecy staple. Texas is the greatest of all cotton growing states. Texas could produce a crop of thirteen million bales and not half try but the cotton grower has been taught the lesson that the American wheat grower will be taught that over-production means poverty for the American farmer.

However, the southern cotton grower is more fortunate than the northern wheat grower. There are thirty-seven wheat producing nations. There are only a few spots under the shining sun where the cotton plant blooms. King Cotton came back to his throne last year. He will be dethroned this year.

Your Money AT WORK

Brief but important lessons in Finance, Markets, Stocks, Bonds and Investments

Women are usually very poor judges of real estate value. They are prime "suckers" when it comes to purchasing homes.

The statements made above were made by one of the most successful and stable real estate operators in America. They are true statements, and here are the reasons.

When a woman buys a home she looks for all sorts of little knick-knacks, conveniences, and things of that type. So far as it goes, this is a perfectly good practice, but the woman is usually influenced by these things that she will be persuaded into buying the house for far beyond the true value of these improvements.

In looking over the home it is well to see what conveniences are offered, but be sure that these things do not boost the price enormously. A house which is worth, say $3,000, is often purchased by a speculator who puts $15,000 worth of "improvements and conveniences" on it and sells it for $30,000. One way to avoid making a foolish purchase based on sentiment in regard to knickknacks is to deal with an experienced real estate man—paying him a fee for his services in getting the house you want. Such a fee will not only save disappointments but will save you actual money.

Dr. Frank Crane's Editorials

THE SEA

I have been much troubled always by the passage of Scripture which says, "There shall be no more sea."

It was explained to me by a Quaker on shipboard who observed that whereas in former times the sea had been the barrier it had now become the common carrier of nations.

Time was when the crossing of the sea was a perilous event, one to be undertaken only by the more adventurous portion of the population, for this reason every nation was more or less provincial and self-contained.

Man, however, by his invention of steam has conquered the sea, and made them his route. At present no one thinks more of crossing the ocean than he does of crossing the ferry. This has brought foreign lands near to us.

It has been difficult for us to accommodate ourselves to this idea and we persist in conceiving of foreigners as being peoples totally different from us, whereas if we only see them often enough to find them much the same.

The sea, therefore, has taken down barriers and has not made them. Someone has said, "We should study maps of the sea with the lands which lie around them, and not maps of the land."

On the surface of the globe, three-fifths are water. That is, the most part of our habitable sphere is made up of the sea. There is more life in the sea than on the land, so scientists tell us. But it is hidden life separated from us by a curtain which we cannot penetrate.

Man is a land animal and is not adapted for breathing sea water. Just as men drown in the sea, so fishes drown in the air.

What goes on in that immense republic of the sea we can only guess. We know it has its monsters, its animals, its whales and its grotesque gentry.

As far as we can see there is no creature in the water that corresponds to man. There is no thinking fish. But there must be some power in the great plan for the water population or there would not be so much of it.

There are few experiences more refreshing to the soul than to be in the midst of the great waters, to look out for days upon an expanse of ocean with no land on the horizon. This makes one feel his littleness, his insignificance, in the order of things. It is as if one were adrift amidst the immense distances of the stars.

The LAND OF FOGGOTTEN MEN by Edison Marshall

Released by NEA Service, Inc. Copyright 1923 by Little, Brown & Co.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Peter Newhall, Augusta, Ga., flew to Alaska after being told by his cousin, Russian violinist, he had drowned Paul Schlichter, Ishmin's secretary. Ishmin and Peter's wife, Dorothy, had urged him to go to South America. He joins Big Chris Larson in response to a distress signal at sea, giving Larson his sea jacket. Their launch hits rocks. Larson's body is buried as Newhall's. Peter, released from his injuries, has completely changed his appearance.

Dorothy and Ishmin go to Alaska to return Peter's body. They do not recognize Peter in their head guide "Change name," a message from a seance. Dorothy believes to be from Peter, telling her to accept his marriage proposal. Upon Ishmin's return from a trip for supplies, he accepts her proposal for immediate marriage by a native priest. Ishmin plays the wedding music.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

At that instant he was whole world and centuries apart from her. She saw him as the mongrel, his slanted eyes slight, devoured by his Oriental passion, lost in an alien ecstasy. She felt estranged, unspeakably terrified. Yet even now, as the music faded, she must stand beside him at this crude cross so white in the dusk. She must go to him. Like a maiden sacrifice to some unearthly, heathen god. It mystified her, filled her with a poignant sense of impendence, that the cross that marked the grave should be the only whiteness left in the spreading dusk.

She was hardly aware when the music stopped. The wind and the softer notes of the sea and the night continued its refrain. Ivan stepped beside her, then they walked together until they stood in the place where they would plight their vows.

In that moment Pavlov had become a figure of unmistakable dignity. He was no longer merely a packer, a degenerate descendant of many crossed breeds. He was the priest, the high ambassador of the church. He stood erect, his voice low and full of feeling, and it was plain that he considered this a holy rite, sacred to his heathen gods.

Ivan had not been mistaken in thinking that the ceremony would be impressive. Here were the eternal realities—the sea and the sky and the storm-swept shore—and the weird tones and quality of the night added to it an effort of dignity. The words that Pavlov spoke were mistaken, even though he had long turned away from the light to bow before greasy images. It was even, in particular, because he had preferred, it appeared to his eternal sense of fitness, the attribute of his genius; and it lifted him out of himself like the passion of his own great music.

Very soon the vows were spoken, and ignoring the presence of the priest and the two witnesses, Ivan took his bride in his arms. Pavlov shook hands with both, himself carried away by exultation, and Fortune Joe came up clumsily to offer his good wishes.

"We owe a lot to you," Ivan told him happily. "That message to change the name that you brought through helped more than any other thing to make up Mrs. Ishmin's mind."

Dorothy turned, her heart leaping, to receive Peter's congratulations, but the head guide still loitered in the dusk. In the same instant, however, almost carried away by a half-mad impulse to take the girl in his arms for one kiss that by an old custom at weddings he might rightly claim. It would mean more to him than mere beauty and loveliness; it would be a memory to harbor in the days to come and it would some way exalt him in ways beyond his ken. It was not just a whim, a delusion; it was his longing and his loss had some center, for the instant, in this; and it was suddenly a veritable end. Some way that kind of end, an enduring token of what he had been and what he had given, and it would help sustain him in the darkening future. But he repelled the impulse with an iron will, wondering, for the instant, if even to dwell upon it signified the first wandering of insanity. Such an act would only put him to needless trial, open old wounds. She would know his life of old and feel the love that poured through him, and he might, by one selfish act, risk the inviolability of his disguise. Even yet it might cost her her happiness.

"Aren't you going to wish us well, Pete?" he heard the girl say in the dusk.

Her tremulous voice brought him to himself. "In just a minute," he answered as casually as he could. "I've got to get the camp ready for you first. After that, I'll give you all the good wishes that I know."

He turned, groping into the gloom, and lifted his face to the doubtful mercy of the wind. It swept by him, chanting, into the fastnesses of the night; and he wondered if it would not blow out the flame of his own life. He had a feeling that oblivion was near; that somehow, because the need of him was done, the curtain would soon fall over his own existence. Surely, it was futile henceforth; the drama was concluded, the game was through and the counters put away.

Some in the great plan for the water population or there would not be so much of it.

There are few experiences more refreshing to the soul than to be in the midst of the great waters, to look out for days upon an expanse of ocean with no land on the horizon. This makes one feel his littleness, his insignificance, in the order of things. It is as if one were adrift amidst the immense distances of the stars.

Rumors Out That Dame Fashion is Visiting Wine Cellars For Fall Colors

THE cupboard full of new colors that Old Mother Fashion has been storing up for the coming fall and winter are now being served in appetizing dishes to makers of the modes. What will appear on our next season's fashion menu is the question of the hour and is, of course, of unusual interest to all Port Arthur women.

Outstanding among the novel introductions are the brilliant purple reds of the fuchsia type, ranging from a deep vibrant tone down to a deep light blue. These are named Bismarck, Bismarck and De Medici. The brilliant chrysanthemum which first appeared in the spring, has been recalled. It is followed by sunflower, slightly deeper and redder in tone. The slender occupy a position of considerable importance. Baccus, rain and autumn, are the new names, while another deep wine of mellow red is called Granada. Chrysanthemum red will again be featured with a new rendition called Comandante.

Three new colors of the rosewood variety are named after the rose, rose and rose ebony. Greens are represented by daisy water tones called Amazon, Pines and Triton, also a dark rich green suggestive of the old Cornish uniform.

Browns are again to hold a very over gray. The soft gold-brown tones of terrapin, tortoise shell, turtle and sepi will lead the race in the darker tones. Creamy medium tans called perline and rutting will be the new neutral shades. Su-browns, grayer in tone, are named prairie, mustang and broncho. Vivid Japanese orange shades are called Kyoto, Mikado and Koto—the last deep red-dish brown with tawny undertones.

Zinc, pelican and grebe gray will continue in vogue and navy blue will remain to back in fashion's favors. A vivid Scotch blue of tartan plaid persuasion is aptly named Bonnie blue, but delicate gray blues, such as Bismarck, Gobi and Flemish blue are not to be supplanted. A veritable Persian love lyric is the deep turquoise blue called Kaslian. Antique gold is a typical tapestry color. Yellow impersonates a new role and will, as a big yes—under the name of banana.

The new woolen colors are a nutria, a grayish tan, a rock gray, rubber, a medium brown, Casanova is another brown of copper cast and muskrat is a dark fur shade. Squirrel and pewter of the new gray and cinnamon, a lacquer red, fairway is soft, shadowy green; tartan is a dark Scottish green; old lavender is gray-tinted smoky violet; Lagoon is the greenish blue of rug fame, and wide dress is a rich, brown-dipped red.

The eight official color and leather colors are: Amethyst and racquet, a dark African brown, and bunny, a golden brown, while Spatan is decidedly golden orange in tone and will be used for sport wear. Stone gray and rose taupe are new shades in the gray family.

Last but not least the association offers as a savory morsel 12 director colors. These are: luscious sunset, shades as tempting as any French pastry or after-dinner bonbons. Delicate, refreshing greens—naive powdery blues—intriguing pinks and mellow yellows, these will be the diaphanous hues which the mode will use for evening wear. Such color names as Diana, an orchid, Ceres and Perche give proof to the fact that fashion has gone to Olympus for her color inspiration.

FATHER OF MRS. JOHN ALDEN PRESCOTT VERY ILL
(Extract from "The Morning Argosy")

The invitation to a large party to have been given by Mr. and Mrs. John Alden Prescott this evening has been received, and Mrs. Prescott has left hurriedly for the home of her father, whose illness is serious.

Mrs. Prescott's parents, accompanied by their youngest daughter and her fiancé, Mr. Karl Whitney, returned from Europe about a month ago, and they were joined in New York by Mrs. Prescott. Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton and their daughter have been some months in England with Mrs. Hamilton's fiancé.

Mr. Hamilton was not well during the latter part of his stay abroad, and during his stay in New York his illness became more apparent. Since arriving at his home he has grown steadily worse.

Yesterday the invitation for Miss Hamilton's wedding to Mr. Karl Whitney were stopped just as they were being delivered at the post-office, and the invitation to Mrs. Prescott's party were recalled.

Watermelon Feast At Pier Is Enjoyable

The affirmative side was taken by Mrs. R. R. Yelderman and Mrs. Dewey Bostic, and the negative side was ably defended by Rev. Yelderman and if Claude Holmes. Whitty repartee and delightfully amusing points were brought out by both sides. The decision, however, being left to the judges were Mrs. R. D. Brown, Mrs. Altha Talley, Capt. H. M. A Super-Clay

Brought me beauty and perennial youth

By Edna Wallace Hopper

I look back on a glorious career. First, as a famous beauty. Then for 35 years a stage star. And now, at a grand old age, I am still a beauty still, playing a beauty's part.

I owe all this to several factors, but the greatest is my new type clay. Now I have arranged with druggists and toilet counters to supply it to every woman. I want it to bring others what it brought me—multiplied beauty, decades of added youth.

My White Youth Clay
Old clays were crude and muddy. Mine is white, refined and dainty. Old types had one clay—mine has two. There are eleven ingredients embodied in mine, to bring the maximum result.

I owe this clay to men who have given me many years of scientific study. It is a super-clay, amazing in its quick and lasting benefits. I have seen many plain girls become beauties with one application. I have seen older women seem to drop ten years.

Clay is a beauty essential. No girl can look her best without it. No woman can keep her youth. Look at France—where girls are all beauties and women all young. This is largely due to clay.

I have no great interest in urging women to use my particular clay. But I do urge them to use some clay. I have found that mine brings multiplied results, but better the old types than none.

The Magical Effects
My White Youth Clay purges the skin of all that clings or mars it. It draws out the cause of blackheads and pimples. It brings the blood to the surface of the skin to nourish and revitalize it. The result is a rosy after-glow which so amazes and delights. Hundreds tell me they hardly know their wives after they use White Youth Clay.

It firms the skin, combats all wrinkles, reduces enlarged pores. It works off every sign of age. I will gladly mail sample if you mail this coupon.

Yelderman to Preach On Things God Will Not Do

"Seven Things God Will Not Do" will be the subject of Rev. R. R. Yelderman's sermon Sunday night at the First Christian church.

He could do these things, but will not do them for reasons which will be spoken of from the pulpit, according to Rev. Yelderman, who declares that this will be a thought provocation sermon and will open up new channels of thought for both the earnest and the casual Bible student.

Special music will be rendered by the choir under the direction of G. N. Biv, choir director.

Sunday night's sermon will be the last Rev. Yelderman will deliver in Port Arthur until he returns from his vacation in East Texas. The pulpit, however, will be supplied by capable speakers and announcements will be made later concerning these services.

ARE YOUR FOOD HABITS BETTER?

Adequate Diets Lacking in Most Homes

As the family income increases, more of the budget allowance for food is spent for flavor. The so-called adequate diet—rich in calories and fat—leaves out, when only the minimum amount of money is expended. With more money we are likely to buy foods which will lighten up our meals in both looks and taste. This is an excellent change in some ways. Fruits and vegetables are full of flavor and it is wise to include these nutritious foods in our menus. On the other hand, as taste becomes more of a factor, sometimes beautiful foods are given up. Whole cereals and dark breads disappear from the table where there is all the more reason for them to be eaten because, usually, with a better income, comes more leisure. Leisure, however, often leads to less exercise rather than more—and this is a cause for concern.

bread made from bolted flour; we eat vegetables, so young and tender that they have not developed enough cellulose to furnish roughage. We strain our soups and eat foods which require little or no chewing.

Added to Medicine

What is the result? We are becoming more addicted to medicine—rather than trouble to use our teeth for chewing. It is not only that we need coarse food for regulating the body processes, but the very act of chewing brings the blood to the teeth and keeps them in a healthy condition.

The science of nutrition is teaching us the value of some of these scorned foods. For the sake of their teeth, give children whole grain cereals which require chewing. Serve vegetables such as celery, spinach, and cabbage. Use bran as a cereal and in recipes. The old-fashioned bran which was decidedly unpalatable has been superseded by an appetizing product which has been cooked, crumbled, and roasted. This is an excellent protective food. It furnishes roughage, and is rich in the minerals which our menus are prone to neglect.

Baked Fish With Parsley Sauce

Fish makes a nice light supper very much appreciated in warm weather and bluefish, weakfish and fresh mackerel offer a variety at this season. It is especially nice baked and an agreeable change in the usual routine of roast, broil, fry and boil. Another advantage is that it requires such a short time to cook, and although many housewives realize this they are averse to baking fish because they have experienced some trouble in removing it from the baking pan to a platter. This difficulty can be overcome by using an enameled ware baking pan. No transferring will be necessary then—the fish can be garnished with lemon and watercress and served intact in the china-like pan in which it is baked. Remove the scales by scraping with a dull knife from the tail and split the fish down the belly. Clean, wipe and dry and rub with salt inside and out. Dredge with flour, season with a little black or cayenne pepper. Place the fish with the inside upward in a well-buttered enameled ware baking pan and put a piece of butter about the size of an egg on top of the fish. Place in a hot oven without water. As soon as it begins to brown pour a half cupful of hot water into the pan and baste repeatedly every ten minutes afterwards. Bake until tender and serve with a sauce made of chopped parsley and onions mixed with salt, vinegar and oil.

New potatoes boiled with their jackets on and fresh asparagus with drawn butter would add the finishing touches for a nice meal.

HOT WEATHER MENUS
LUNCHEON—Ham mousse, lettuce sandwiches, chilled berries with powdered sugar, drop cookies, iced tea.

Ham Mousse
Two cups finely chopped cold boiled ham, 1-2 cup white stock, 1 teaspoon granulated gelatin, 1-2 cup whipped cream.

Chop and pound the ham until smooth. Season well with mustard and paprika. Soften gelatin in cold water. Bring stock to the boiling point and stir in gelatin. Add to ham and mix well. When cold fold in the cream, whipped until stiff. Turn into a mold and set on ice to chill and become firm. Scraps of ham picked from the bone and the ends are delicious used up this way. A knuckle of veal well cracked could be boiled with celery and onion and the usual "bouquet garni" for the stock. If veal or chicken stock, if you live on a farm, is kept on hand in the summer time, many delicious and out of the ordinary dishes can be made with little effort.

Drop Cookies

Two tablespoons butter, 1-2 cup sugar, 2 eggs, 1 cup flour, 1 teaspoon baking powder, 1-4 teaspoon salt, 4 tablespoons milk, 1 cup finely chopped nuts, 1 teaspoon vanilla. Cream butter and stir in sugar. Add eggs well beaten. Mix and sift flour, baking powder and salt and stir into first mixture. Mix thoroughly. Stir in milk and vanilla. Add nuts. Drop from teaspoon onto oiled and floured cookie sheet and bake fifteen to twenty minutes in a slow oven.

Drop cookies are especially nice in hot weather as they take much less time to make than the rolled and cut ones.

DINNER—Fricassee of lamb, new potatoes with minced parsley, lima beans in cream, cucumber and watercress salad, toasted wafers, halves of cantaloupe filled with mixed fruit, half cups of coffee.

Lamb Fricassee
Three pounds shoulder of lamb, 2 tablespoons butter, 2 tablespoons flour, 3 teaspoons salt, 1 small onion, 1-8 teaspoon pepper, 2 cups lamb stock.

In the morning trim and cut the lamb in pieces convenient for serving. Put in bottle with onion and 6 cups of water and simmer until tender. Remove from liquor and cool. Cool stock and remove fat. Season meat with salt and pepper when about half done. Melt butter and saute meat until a pale straw color. Sift over flour and mix well, being sure every bit of the flour is absorbed by the butter and meat. Strain over 2 cups of lamb stock and cook, stirring constantly until thick and smooth. Serve on a platter and garnish with tiny points of toast.

It won't take more than fifteen minutes to prepare this dish at dinner time. New potatoes should cook in half an hour and lima beans in the same time. Half an hour of work will get this dinner.

COSTUME SLIPS
New costume slips are more decorative than before and have hems of checks or stripes in contrasting colors.

FRENCH FLOWERS
A cluster of French flowers at the belt or on the left shoulder is one of the most popular ways of dressing up the plain frock.

Operated On For Appendicitis

FUNERAL ARRANGEMENTS TO BE ANNOUNCED LATER

Many times, no doubt, you have seen the above headline in your newspaper. Very often it has told of some friend suddenly stricken with dread appendicitis. The newspapers, however, neglect to state that appendicitis is usually preceded by stomach trouble. They don't tell you that the afflicted person suffered frequent attacks of heartburn long before he went to the hospital.

While heartburn is not always a sign of an inflamed appendix, it is always a warning that something is wrong. In many cases it results from indigestion, which is one of the predisposing causes of appendicitis.

If you suffer from a burning, crawling sensation in the stomach, excessive gas, sour stomach, nausea or other distress after eating, go at once and obtain a bottle of Smith Bros' M. A. C. the guaranteed stomach treatment. This pleasant, harmless liquid rids the stomach of catarrhal mucus, allays inflammation, helps digestion and cleanses the bowels of poison waste matter. Price $1.25. Money back if the first bottle does not relieve.

West Side Forces Chubby's Boys to Hustle to Win

NORTH SIDERS WIN GAME, 7-6

Noble's Team Refutes Story Of Disbanding

BY VAN M. ANDRUS
Johnny Noble's West Side baseball players did not disband as reported, and yesterday afternoon on Lakeshore diamond they worried "Chubby" Earhart's North Side boys for seven innings, in the last inning of which Couson hit into a play that resulted in Stephenson scoring with the winning run of a 7-6 game. The decision went to the North Siders.

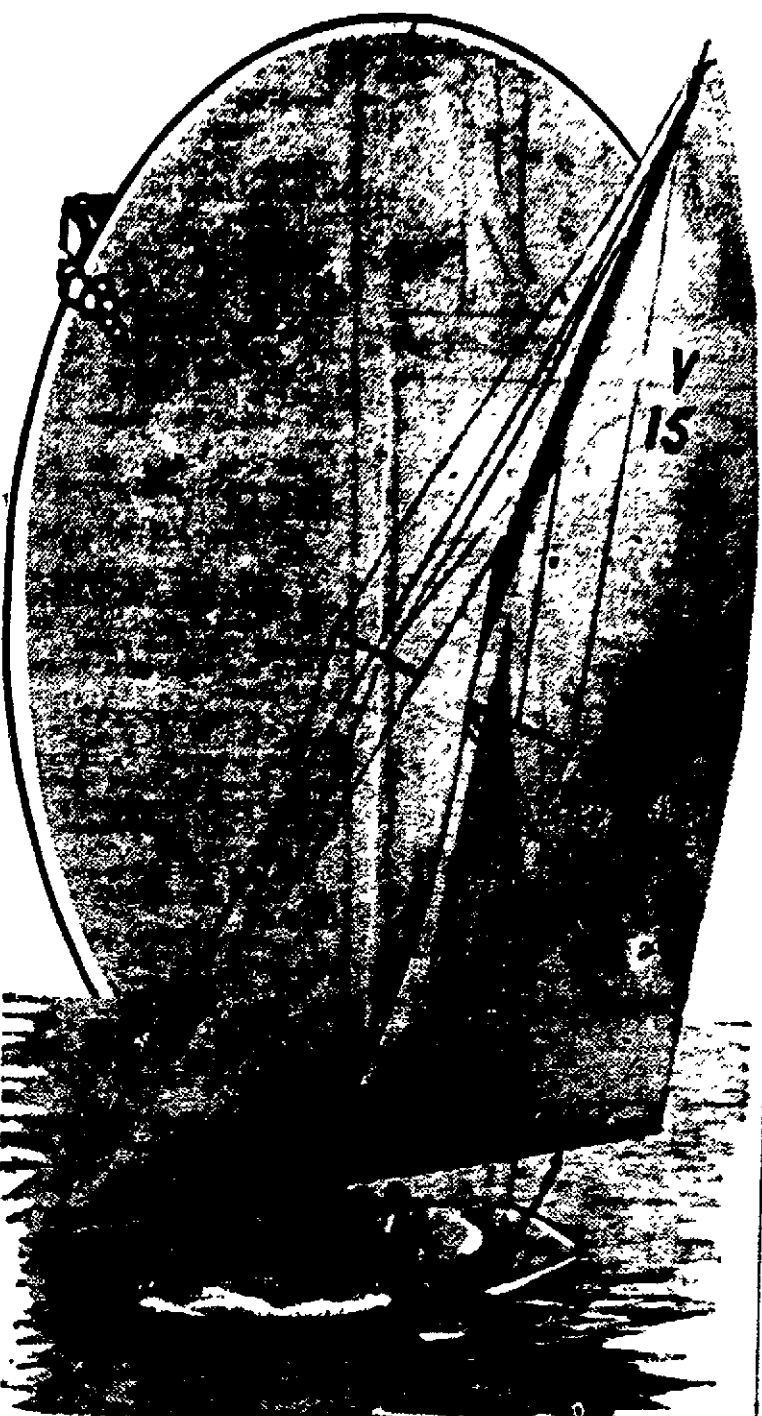

The game was nip and tuck throughout, and it appeared that extra innings would be necessary to settle the matter, when Couson hit to Stoner, who instead of trying for Couson at first, tried to get Stephenson at third and made a wild pitch, which allowed Stephenson to score with the winning run.

Kring Pays at First
"Big Boy" Valentino Kring played a game at first base that was truly excellent. Kring reached out with his mighty arm and brought down flies and liners with unerring precision. Cole brought the sensation of the game when he gladly received one of Simonson's offerings, and sent it into deep center field and scored Palmer ahead of him. Billy Palmoe, also sent a fly into deep center field, but was caught out by a foot trying to reach home.

The announcement that the West Side team had disbanded was not appearing at their last two games. League officials thought that it was likely that they would disband. However, after the game they played yesterday, it appears to be the better plan to pay them due respect in the league. While they did not win, they proved they can make the road very difficult for the opposing team. They should take heart and keep on the road.

George Ruth Cheerfully Smashes Another Record as He Gets 33rd Homer

Where You Get Plenty Of Miles Just on Wind

Out where traffic is never congested, where roads are always navigable, where you are free from blowouts and where you get plenty of mileage on a friendly following wind—out to sea in a sailboat on a mid-summer day. Hence, I ask you ain't that the life? (Hence would be an awful sap to say so.) If you are interested further the picture shows No. 13 of the Victory Squadron sailing in a club event off Long Island Sound.

BABE TO PASS HIMSELF SOON

Season Record Likely To Be Above 60

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—Records said Babe Ruth, "were made to be broken."

And breaking them is something that the Babe does little else but. He broke one yesterday, yet in hot St. Louis, where he hit his 14th homer for the month of July—most four-pipe smacks in a month's span than ever were smacked before in the history of modern baseball. In 1921, during June, he hit 13 homers.

Likely to Make Record
The Babe is away on a merry chase after his season home run record. He is nine round trips ahead of where he was last year, but five behind where he was at this time in 1921. His total is now 33.

It would not be a bit surprising to see Ruth catch up and pass himself, as you might say, along about mid-September and make a new record of 60 or more homers for the season. It would be hard to picture surprise if this amazing young man should step out and bat the Woolworth building over into Jersey.

Anything is conceivable with the Babe, except that he should fail to astonish us once in a while. Incidentally he might lead the league in batting as well as in home runs and runs driven in and a few other things, although the chances are that if he chooses to go after a new mark for homers he will have to sacrifice something.

Another Day In the Majors

DETROIT'S loss of second place to Washington and the double kicking from the Yankees by the Browns featured the forenoon race in the American league yesterday. The Tigers were punched in the slats 1 to 0 in a pitching duel between Rip Collins of Texas and Zachary of the Nats. Zachary allowed but three hits, while Collins and Deans, who went in at the beginning of the ninth, gave up four hits. The Texas was wild, however, and walked six of the Senators.

St. Louis took the opening game off the Yanks 2 to 1, Wriggall allowing the Noo Yawkers but five errors. In the second affair, Dave Lindsay came through, 5 to 4, giving the Yanks six hits. Babe Ruth drove out his 33rd home run in the eighth round. It was his 14th for July—a new month record for the Babe.

Cleveland and Philadelphia split a double bill, the first going to the A's 7 to 2, and the second to the Indians 4 to 3, in ten innings. Herbie White Sox over the Red Sox, 5 to 4. McCellan, playing second for Eddie Collins, got a double and two singles in four times at bat. A double steal by Shelly and the lightning-fast Archdeacon, coupled with one of McCellan's bingles, put the game on ice.

In the senior league, the Press continued their whirlwind gallop and took their seventh straight game, incidentally being also the third straight off the Giants, 6 to 0. The game was called after the sixth inning because of rain and darkness, but McGowan seemingly had the Giants eating out of his hand.

The Cardinals won their second straight from the Phillies, 6 to 3. Mitchell being knocked out of the box in the first inning. Four runs in the first inning were plenty to win on. The Brooklyn Dodgers were beaten by the Windy City Cubs, 4 to 1. Barrett driving in all of Chicago's runs.

BRADLEY HOGUE BEATS JESTER

Singles Champion Off Form In Dallas Tourney

DALLAS, Aug. 1.—Bradley Hogue, title holder, took the measure of Laven Jester, 1933 Southern singles champion, in straight sets, defeating the last year's title holder 6-4, 6-5 in the third set, a usual tournament under way.

Jester was visibly off form, losing heavily on points and outs, while Hogue flashed into the lead at top stride.

Hogue, J. B. Adeau, Jr., John Barr, S. M. U. student, and Ben Parks, Oklahoma City, will go into the semifinals in the singles during the afternoon.

Adeau earned his way into the semifinals through defeat of Claude Monnet, Oklahoma City, after the latter trashed off Arthur Sedgwick, San Antonio, in the third round.

Summary of Thursday's play:
Singles: Fourth round—Bradley Hogue, Dallas, defeated Laven Jester, Dallas, 6-4, 7-5; Ben J. Parks, Oklahoma City, defeated Wither Settle, Dallas, 2-6, 6-3; J. B. Adeau, Jr., Dallas, defeated Claude Monnet, Oklahoma City, 5-6, 6-4; John Barr, Dallas, defeated Ted Hackney, Fort Worth, 6-2, 6-5.

Joe Pate Scores Two Wins In One Day at Bayou City

HOUSTON, Aug. 1.—Joe Pate, Fort Worth pitcher, who is rated as the class of the Texas league this year, took part in a no-hit, no-run affair after the regular game was over yesterday. One error marred the score sheet—but it wasn't a costly error at that.

Joe, with several of his Cat friends, was marked on a trunk in front of the Nice hotel Thursday evening discussing how he let the Buffs down holding the short end of a 6-2 affair Wednesday.

The law strolled by, majestically and solemnly, and ordered the boys to take their rest somewhere out of the traffic.

Joe objected, claiming he wasn't with the crowd the officer ordered to move. The law insisted that Joe move too, and in the argument that followed, certain short ugly words flew back and forth.

A few minutes later the city "taxi-cab" clanked up the street, and Joe got a free ride to headquarters.

The "scorers" at the station could not decide against whom to chalk up the error—Joe or the cop—so he was released with two victories in one day to his credit.

Strangler Lewis Wins 'Nabisco' at Frisco

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 1.—Ed "Strangler" Lewis successfully defended his title as world's wrestling champion when he won two out of three falls from Stanislaus Zysko. Lewis took the first fall in eighteen minutes and 45 seconds with a flying headlock. Zysko gained the second in eighteen minutes, 40 seconds with a toe hold and the champion won the third in nine minutes and 50 seconds with another headlock.

BAGWELL'S BINGLE IN NINTH BEATS SPUDS

GALVESTON, Aug. 1.—Bagwell's single in the ninth inning with the bases full and two out was the outstanding feature of the Crab's 4 to 3 victory over Wichita Falls. Bagwell had previously hit his 22nd home run of the season with the bases empty. Mathews made his first appearance on the mound for Galveston and hurled good ball after the first inning.

Boils

THERE is a reason for everything that happens. Common-sense kills misery. Common-sense also stops boils! S. S. S. is the common-sense remedy for boils, because it is built on reason. Scientific authorities admit its power! S. S. S. builds blood-power, it builds red-blood-cells. That is what makes fighting-blood. Fighting-blood destroys impurities. It fights boils. It fights pimples! It fights skin eruptions! It always wins! Mr. V. D. Schaff, 537 15th street, Washington, D. C., writes:

"I tried for years to get relief from a bad case of boils. Everything failed until I took S. S. S. I am now absolutely cured, and it was S. S. S. that did it."

CLASSICS USED AS BALL ALIBIS

And We Wonder Where They Came From

DETROIT, Mich., July 31.—Was a major league player slumped in his batting he always has an alibi.

Very often the excuses offered for the failure to hit are classics. You wonder where they dig them up.

One of the big surprises of the present American league race has been the slump of Harry Heilmann, champion batsman of the organization, presided over by Ben Johnson.

For the first eight weeks of the season Heilmann was his old self with a mark around 400. Many of the critics opined that Heilmann had a great chance to win the most valuable player trophy for 1934.

Then, inside of a couple of weeks, Heilmann's batting average dropped 50 points, only ending when he was removed from the lineup. Here is the way Harry explains it and his alibi seems logical:

"A small-pox scare caused all of the Detroit players to be vaccinated as a preventative. Mine took with a vengeance, a badly swollen arm resulted.

"I make a full swing at the ball. This was impossible with my sore arm. I was forced to use a chop swing. I simply couldn't time the ball. My batting slumped badly.

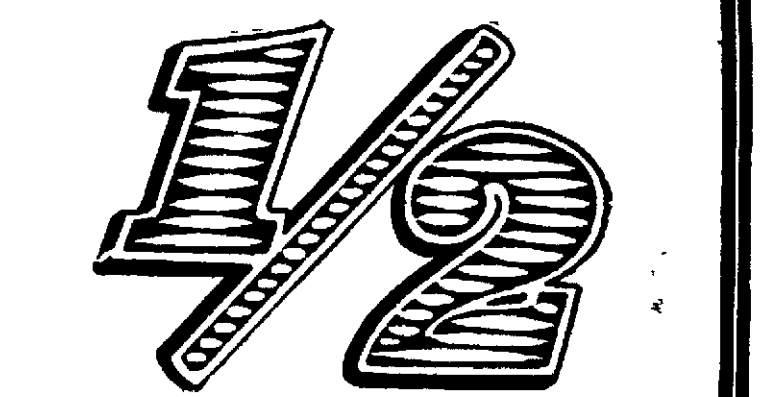

"When the arm healed my timing of the ball continued to be poor, there was a lack of co-ordination between eye and swing. I simply couldn't get the ball safe.

"While I have done better of late, the shifting of my style, due to the vaccinated arm, seems to have thrown me entirely off my stride."

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

"Howdy, do," he said when she saw him and Nick.

"Did you find out anything?" asked Mister Zip. "Did you find out why so many people are getting into Happy Go Lucky Park for nothing?"

"The Twins shook their heads. 'Not yet,' said Nick. 'We went to see Mrs. Field Mouse in the basement of Maple Tree Flat, and she says she gives Flop money for taking home washings. She says he spends it all coming to your park and she doesn't care because she knows he's safe here.'"

"All right," said the fairyman. "Maybe you'd better go and see Mrs. Mole next."

"We were just going to," said Nancy.

So away went the Twins to Mrs. Mole's house under the hamel bush. Mrs. Mole was at home and just doing up the lunch dishes.

"Tap, tap, tap!" went Nick on her front door.

Mrs. Mole dried her hands and answered it. "I do declare," she remarked to herself, "I never put my hands into a batch of biscuit dough as fast water or something like that that somebody doesn't come. Who do you s'pose it is?"

She put on her spectacles (for she was very near-sighted) and opened the door.

"Howdy, do," she said when she saw Nancy and Nick.

"Hod do you do," said the Twins. "Is Mikey at home?"

"No," said Mrs. Mole. "He isn't. He's at Happy Go Lucky Park. He's there nearly all the time since it opened."

"Has he any money?" asked Nick. "Money?" exclaimed Mrs. Mole. "I should say so. Why, how could he get in without money? I'd like to know? The worst of it is just because he's so big for his age. Mister Zip charges him full fare. And he's two weeks younger than his cousin, Mikey, who always gets in for half."

"It's kind of you to let him go every day," said Nancy.

"Oh, I couldn't afford it," said Mrs. Mole. "Only my brother always sends Mikey a dollar on his birthday. I keep it for him and give him 10 cents a day to spend. That's where he gets his money."

"Well, we will see him some time again," said Nick. "Goodbye!"

So back to Happy Go Lucky Park went the Twins to tell Mister Zip that Mikey Mole got 10 cents a day to spend.

"Hopping rain toads!" exclaimed Mister Zip. "That's funny! I sort of thought."

Suddenly he stopped. "How much money did you say Flop Field Mouse got every day?"

"Ten cents for carrying washings," said Nancy.

"And how much money did you say Mikey Mole got?"

"Ten cents out of his birthday money."

The fairyman pointed to two little figures in front of the peanut stand each buying a bag of peanuts. And each was carrying a brand new balloon.

"Then tell me how they have any money left to spend, will you?" said he.

"That's right," said Nick. "If each of them only has 10 cents to get in, how can they come every day and still have 10 cents to spend?"

"There must be something wrong," declared the fairyman.

"We'll find out what it is," said Nancy.

"I wish you would," said Mister Zip with a worried look. "If things keep on like this, I never, never, never will make my fortune." (Copyright, 1924, NEA Service, Inc.)

CHILD'S STORY OF THE HUMAN RACE

By Uncle RAY

A POET WHO NEARLY LOST HIS HEAD

Our picture shows a German count of the Middle Ages sitting beside his wife. The count holds a sword in one hand. The blade is still in its scabbard. Notice how the two are dressed. There is a crown on the count's head and frills above the sleeves of the countess.

That picture was made about six hundred years ago. The count was named Hermann. His wife was called Sophie.

At the castle of this couple lived several poets. They sang their poems as they played on harp or other instruments. Among the poets arose a dispute as to which was the best and which the worst.

To settle the quarrel, they decided to have a "tournament of poetry." They agreed that whoever was judged to be the worst poet should pay for it by giving up his head.

The poet who lost was named Heinrich. The man whose job it was to cut off heads began to get his ax ready. The poor poet was unhappy (as we might expect)! He wished he had never quarreled about who made the best poems.

If Heinrich had given up all hope, he would soon have been a dead man. As it was, he decided to appeal to the countess. Fearing on his knees before her, he begged to be saved.

Countess Sophie took pity on him. She sent for a certain man who lived in Hungary. He came to the castle, talked with all the poets and patched up the quarrel.

That happening led to the writing of a poem a part of which has been saved for us.

The poem says that Heinrich tested his skill against only one other poet, a man named Walther.

Heinrich, as the tale goes, sang about the fine points of an Austrian duke. Walther sang about the fine points of his boat, and won the prize.

The end of that poem is missing, but we can guess it came out the same way as the incident on which it was based.

A Queer Girl

A couple of days after first meeting the little girl in the queer cottage, Betty and Billy passed again, to find the girl out in the yard with a skipping rope. She had on a little pink apron and a hat with a pink band and looked much nicer than she had when they saw her before and she had been afraid to talk to them.

"This time Betty and Billy called 'Hello!' to her and she answered them, coming up to the gate and not seeming nearly so shy. 'She's asleep,' explained the girl, and they knew she meant the mean looking woman she lived with."

"Is she your grandmother?" asked Betty curiously.

"No, she's great-aunt. My mother's dead and my daddy had to go to South America and could not take me. He sent me here, and— Her eyes filled with tears. 'I'd better not talk to you any more,' she said. 'She might wake up. Goodbye, stop again.'"

The most outstanding action of the meeting was the proposal by Claude Breken, manager of the Beaumont Chamber of Commerce, that that body would pay the expenses of three members of the local pilots' association to a meeting to be held at New Or-
